Notice

Date: 08.11.2022

The Department of Philosophy is organizing a seminar on "Rationalism: Ancient and Modern Aspects", scheduled for 22nd November 2022, at 12:00 PM. All students, teaching and non-teaching staff are invited to attend and engage in this enlightening discussion on the evolution of rationalism.

Date: 22nd November 2022

Time: 12:00 PM

Venue: College Seminar Hall

Sanchari Ghosh

Department of Philosophy

Seminar Topic :

Rationalism: Ancient and Modern Aspects

Objective of the Seminar

Rationalism, as a philosophical doctrine, emphasizes reason as the primary source of knowledge, contrasting with empiricism, which relies on sensory experience. In its ancient form, rationalism was championed by thinkers like Plato, who believed in the existence of eternal truths accessible through intellect. Modern rationalism evolved during the Enlightenment with philosophers like Descartes and Spinoza, advocating that reason can provide foundational truths about reality, morality, and existence, independent of experience. Both ancient and modern rationalism seek to establish the supremacy of reason, but while ancient rationalism often intertwined with metaphysical idealism, modern rationalism focused on scientific inquiry and skepticism of unverified beliefs. This exploration of rationalism highlights its enduring significance in philosophical discourse.
